Howdy!

I have a small HTML links page that's just basically a bunch of links. I used it with my Active Desktop. I haven't used it in a while, but when I used to click a link, the page would replace the links page on my Active Desktop.

Now, that I've just added the page to my current Active Desktop all the links open a new browser window. None of the links have a target specified and I'm not hold SHIFT when I click the link.

Anyone know why this is happening? Is it a Windows XP SP2 thing? Is it because I have Firefox installed?

Any help is appreciated.
