

Re: I think I made alil mistake installing x64

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2006-01/msg04438.html>

---

- From: "S.Sengupta" <ssengupta @xxxxxxx>
  - Date: Tue, 10 Jan 2006 13:46:38 +0530
-

Specific newsgroup:-
<news://msnews.microsoft.com/microsoft.public.windows.64bit.general>

regards,
S.Sengupta[MS-MVP]

Jeremy wrote:

ok so yeah it was 2am when I started this little adventure into installing windows xp pro 64bit.

I downloaded the 180day trial from this website got the email downloaded it installed and everything went fine...until it asked for a cd key. Stupid me didnt copy or save the email in any way and when I reformated of course it wiped my out look. And my Email provider doesnt like to save emails once read on outlook so I cant get to the email from the web. So now I am stuck :( is there a way to call or email microsoft so I can get a new cd key or can I just re register under a diffrent name or same? I know idiotic mistake but any help will be appreciated. Thanks,

Rainz3@xxxxxxxxxxxxx