Hi

I just received an e-mail from Admin (I know nobody with this name or title) which is behaving rather strangely.

Windows OneCare reported that this might contain a virus and asked to be permitted to clean it which I gave.

Immediately afterwards, on highlighting the mail (i.e. without opening attachments of which there were none) the screen went black and the machine proceeded to reboot. From what I can see, no further damage was inflicted.

I tried it one more time and got the same result.

This effectively means I cannot delete this mail as it will turn the screen off before I get a chance to hit delete.

What is this and what can I do?

Thanks in advance for any suggestions

Paul
