

Re: [OT] Why is this newsgroup so full of

Re: [OT] Why is this newsgroup so full of

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2006-05/msg04416.html>

- From: steam3801 <tryspammingthis@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 12 May 2006 20:55:09 +1000
-

On Fri, 12 May 2006 11:49:59 +0100, "antioch" <r.antiochdunkthis@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> – in a blinding flash of brilliance – wrote:

"Mistoffolees" <mistyfac01@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:%23SWk7eZdGHA.5016@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Perhaps. But many times, the helpful suggestions made here are not that more successful at resolving difficulties. And tech support within a newsgroup is never well-structured or organized at logical problem-solving. Or one can also write that a "computernik" is a "computernik" in any language but there are too many users that have been dumbed-down to the extent that they no longer know how to learn new technology or are proficient in the three R's. "No kid left behind" can be interpreted to mean that everybody graduates.

ROUND OBJECTS :-) :-)

Who is Round, and to what does he object?

—

steam3801

ASCII a silly question, get a silly ANSI

.