

Re: norton system works 2006 lost producy key

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2006-05/msg08039.html>

- From: Alan Edwards <edwards@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 22 May 2006 20:17:12 +1000
-

Firstly, mine was serious.
Secondly, you can contact Symantec for a key.
Thirdly, I still do not believe that a friend would allow you to install NSW, no matter who I am.

On Mon, 22 May 2006 09:28:42 GMT, in microsoft.public.windowsxp.general, "Gavin Stocks" <GavinStocks@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

firstly yes i do expect some serious replies, unlike yours, and secondly who are you to decide who i count as a friend.

"Alan Edwards" <edwards@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:c503725c8m7a3n3ftg2naj4m0vf2ok2ke@xxxxxxxxxxx

Sorry, but you really don't expect a serious reply?
If Symantec are not forthcoming, then perhaps you should thank your lucky stars and quit while you are ahead?

If anyone supplies you with a product key for NSW, don't count that person as a friend.

On Mon, 22 May 2006 08:53:15 GMT, in microsoft.public.windowsxp.general, "Gavin Stocks" <GavinStocks@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

hi all,
i bought norton system works 2006 for my son a month ago, from which he screwed up his system and formatted it, (silly boy i hear you all say).
any way to make things worse he's lost the card with the product key number on it, so now we have reinstalled xp is there anyone out there who is able to supply him with the n.s.w.2006 product key.

Re: norton system works 2006 lost producy key

by the way, yes we've tried phoning norton and we're sick to death off waiting for them to answer so all serious replies are greatly appreciated.