All of a sudden in most of My Folders I am getting files Sometime faint files called Desktop Configuration Settings. I believe they are initialisation files.

Is ther a way I can get rid of these annoying files and stop them from appearing again. I never had them before except in previous versions of Windows.

Thanx for any help.

You have set the system to display normally hidden and protected system files. Go to FolderOptions>View and check "Hide protected operating system files" and click "OK" to the dialog box.
