

Re: saving disk partition

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2006-06/msg06339.html>

- From: "Gordon" <gordon@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 19 Jun 2006 14:27:10 +0100
-

<nmdc69@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1150721955.678468.35060@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Hi folks,
I want to save an image of the disk partition containing an XP installation (with a lot of software installed). I'd like to be able to install this image to another computer so I won't have to reinstall all the software.

Is this possible? What software should I use to create the image? Once the image is created, and stored on a hard disk, how do I install it?

Is there a way to leave out a folder (eg.: My Documents) so that the image will be smaller?

thanks in advance...

Is this machine being used concurrently with the original? If so, do you have a second XP licence?

.