I ran into disk space shortage on my C: drive, and was uninstalling some programs that I never use to create additional free space. One of those was MS Money (2003). Anyway, after I uninstalled it, using Add/Remove Programs, every time I started up Windows Explorer or Internet Explorer, I get a message from Windows Installer saying it is looking for MONEY.MSI, but can't find it. This has messed up some of the functionality of Internet Explorer and has messed up my ability to hook up to my job through our VPN. I have Office Pro 2003 installed, if that makes any difference.

Any thoughts on why this message is coming up, and how I can fix it?

Thanks,

Eric
