I have been recuperating for 3 months and haven't had access to this website. Before my operation I had posted a few questions in different areas. How can I find the responses. When I search on "Toni" I don't get the results I'm looking for.

Search for your name on Google Groups Advanced Search. Constrain the dates as preferred.

This isn't really a website. Here's an explanation and a better way to use these resources:

Since you are using the web interface, you may not realize that this is really a newsgroup. You will get far more out of this resource if you learn to use a newsreader. There are many good newsreaders for Windows, but you can use Outlook Express since you already have it. Here are some links to information about newsgroups:
