Hello,

Try Searching for the computer that will not share...Use the search tool...When the computer is found, map...

I have 3 Windows XP computers at home networked with a DLink router.
One
the PC will not share its files with the others. The other 2 share files with out any problems. The PC that will not share can be seen by the other PC's but when I try to open and access a file it comes up with an error message telling me to talk to the system administrator. I have turned on file sharing and turned off the fire wall. Any help would be appreciated.
