Suppose you as administrator, elevate their account, then set the firewall while logged in on the account, then log back in as you and lower the accounts back to limited?

i have an admin account (mine) and two other limited user accounts (my daughters). How do I give them access to windows live messenger on their individual accounts? I keep getting a message saying that the firewall is preventing access however if i try to access the firewall it says that I dont have enough privaleges so how do I do it? My girls are driving me mad.
Helllllllllllp
