Dear all,

I'm getting a very odd problem on some Windows XP computers. Usually, a user's temporary internet files would end up somewhere in their profile, eg C:\docume~1\username\locals~1\applic~1... etc

Somehow, something is resetting this to C:\Windows\Temporary Internet Files – which is a bit of a problem for users who aren't administrators, as they only have read permissions to the directory.

Any pointers?
