Do you have zonealarm installed? if so then possibly you need to add the ISP's IP to the trusted zone, as normally refreshes DHCP and if not in the trusted zone you pc is blocked from the internet, therefore no refresh of the DHCP.

open ZA's console go to firewall, Zones then click once on your IP address and then right click and select trusted zones

I am currently at a freinds house using wirless internet. I get a very good singal and a correct IP address.

The internet can work fine for about 15 mins then no webpages will load, MSN will stop and so will email.

No one else on the network are having any probmes. I have not yet tested the laptop on any other network or wired network

Any ideas
