Does anyone of a software that I can use to divided my desktop in two parts. I don't have room for a second monitor, but I need to monitor our helpdesk (web based). So need to be able to open a web browser in a separate part of the desktop that will never be covered by any other program. If you have DeskTop Sidebar installed you have a separate area, how can I do the same thing with just a web site?

Thanks for any help
