Hi,

My Windows has randomly decided to ask for activation, stating that hardware has changed significantly. Which is rubbish, It's not changed at all. Nothing has been changed since I last switched it on.

AND also, I cannot activate it online anymore, AND there is no way I can activate it through the phone, as there is no telephone anywhere near my computer.

What can I do? In 3 days it sounds like my computer is going to just lock down, but for no reason. Help me please? I work on this machine.

Borrow a cell phone.
