Does that make sense?

Here's my deal. I open internet explorer and go to print.....works perfectly.

I go to another page and go to print.....works perfectly.

The problem is when I click on a link that says "Printer Friendly Version" and it pops up the "Friendly" Version in a new window.....THEN i can't print. It does nothing when I try to print. My printer queue doesn't fill up, the printer icon doesn't come up, nothing.....

Any suggestions??

By the way, I've tried the "Use stylesheets" fix.....the "default printer for ie" fix..... the "update scripting" fix.....the "encoding to unicode" fix....and the "change temp location" fix

Thanks for any suggestions in advance. I can always count on these groups to keep me straight.

You might want to post to the internet explorer newsgroup, and in that post also specify what version of IE.

CRS,

Is this on the one site or on all sites?

On all sites that pop up a "printer friendly" version before printing.
I've posted to the internet explorer group also. Thanks for the replies.

Windows version?

Does this behavior persist if you start IE7 in No Add-ons mode? To start IE7 in No Add-ons mode:

Can't Print from IE except from root window...

Can't Print from IE except from root window...

1. Right-click on the blue IE desktop icon and select Start without Add-ons;

2. Start > (All) Programs > Accessories > System Tools > Internet Explorer
(No add-ons).

Does the problem persist if you Reset IE7 Settings (RIES)?

I'm running XP home and no I haven't tried running it without add-ons. I'll try it and then I'll let ya'll know.
