

Re: Append to userid in My Documents?

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2007-04/msg03630.html>

- From: "Susan" <dsnsacree@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 12 Apr 2007 17:48:26 -0500
-

If an administrator deletes the user account and then specifies that the associated user files should not be deleted and then creates a new user account under the same name, the computer name is attached to the new user account and the new user files to distinguish them from the old files stored on the desktop of the administrator.

"Susan" <dsnsacree@xxxxxxx> wrote in message news:uJv7pLxeHHA.4564@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

A domain user profile would be the cause.
What happens when the OS is Windows XP Home? Can the person delete the domain user profiles and fix the problem?

"Susan" <dsnsacree@xxxxxxx> wrote in message news:%23AC6DGGeHHA.284@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

C:\Documents and Settings\name.OX163JXORENX8MZ

What would cause a string to be appended to the userid for the Documents and Settings?

Any clues please for what to look for?