

How turn off security warnings

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2007-06/msg06699.html>

- From: "Bill" <no@xxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 29 Jun 2007 15:14:36 -0700
-

XP Pro SP2. Since installing the last set of Windows updates I get a security warning dialog every time I try to run a program or open a file on a mapped drive. How can I disable all of these warnings and return to the old behavior?

All I have found using Google groups are messages that say add the server to some zone in IE with no clue how to do it. I will do this for every computer on the networ if I must but what I really want is to configure Windows so that it will never display a warning for any file on any computer on the local area network. Thanks.

—

..Bill.

.