

Re: Up grade to get full true fax program??

Re: Up grade to get full true fax program??

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2007-08/msg04662.html>

- From: "Vanguard" <vanguard@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 20 Aug 2007 23:57:51 -0500
-

"Richard15" wrote in message

<news:ABBCAAAC-B15C-4A70-84E2-F489275E0275@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Hi all, I hope this question finds all doing fairly well. I had terrible time try to install clean copy of Vista Business. I finally wiped my hard drive clean again and reinstalled Window XP Home edition, which has a weak crummy fax program. One can only send a cover sheet with no following pages. I would like to upgrade to XP Professional if it had full true fax program. Does anyone know if it does?

The Fax Service prints as many pages as you send to it. Learn to use the Fax printer (i.e., print your document from whatever application you are using and select to use the Fax printer).

If you want better faxing software, you'll have to get it separately as a 3rd party product. The Fax Service is what you get in WinXP Pro. Actually, I didn't think it was included in the Home version but maybe you can installed it separately from the install CD.