

Re: Want to log bug against windows xp

Re: Want to log bug against windows xp

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2007-09/msg01061.html>

- From: "Pegasus \ (MVP)" <I.can@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 6 Sep 2007 11:54:33 +0200
-

If you delete a data drive (e.g. by deleting the partition) then all files on that partition will be lost. This is by design.

"Karthikeyan S" <KarthikeyanS@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:440BD974-AFB7-4A62-AF78-57ED082F7573@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Thanks a lot for reply back.

I have couple of questions which i have mentioned below.

What will happen if delete an existing data drive(other than System drive) through Manage computer?

Is there any place the OS will store all the files and folders information which were presented in the deleted data drive?

Regards,
Karthikeyan S

"Pegasus (MVP)" wrote:

"Karthikeyan S" <Karthikeyan S@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:D32EB39A-627C-4F20-80F7-B1985D8D9F9D@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

Hi,

I am Karthikeyan S, as a Tester.

I want to log a bug against windows XP. It would be great if any one provide a link where i can report and discuss about my issues in Microsoft.com

Re: Want to log bug against windows xp

Regards,
Karthikeyan S

Since the vast majority of problems perceived as "bugs" are based on misunderstandings or insufficient knowledge, it would be best if you presented your findings in this forum for discussion before submitting them to Microsoft as a bug report.