trying to upgrade/re-install xp pro from my recovery disk. Get a message that the wrong volume is in the drive. I think this means my product key doesn't match my recovery disk.

Since the product key is not on the CD, no that can't possibly be what it means.

Exactly how are you trying to do this? Please be specific? Booting from the CD? Running from within Windows? What steps did you take?

Why are you doing this? What are you planning to accomplish?

Before I attempt a complete re-install I'd like a second opinion, since the tech support didn't know what they mean. Thanks in advance,
