| I've got problems with Isass.exe. It's a nasty virus that won't budge.
| It all started with my AV (Sophos) found a file called DDCCB.DLL.
| I've tried deleting it manually, CMD, in Safe Mode, everything. I even
| used Processor Explorer from Microsoft to find out what was running it
| and it turns out to be Isass.exe. When you try and kill it, it shuts
| down the whole machine.
| Sophos managed to quarantine the ddccb.dll file but isass.exe is still
| running. I've submitted a copy to them and just waiting to hear back
| from them.
| I'm stumped at how to remove isass.exe. I'm not a geek and I haven't
| got time to spend hours downloading AV, running scans, reading
| reports. If anyone knows a simpler way of being able to remove this
| pest, please, please let us know!!!

As was stated before is this ISASS.EXE or LSASS.EXE ?

DDCCB.DLL sounds like a Vundo Trojan. Is it C:\windows\system32\ddccb.dll ?

3 phase answer...

Perform Part 1, Part 2 and Part 3

It is suggested that you execute each tool in Normal Mode then in Safe Mode.

If you are using any version of Sun Java that is prior to JRE Version 6.0, then you are strongly urged to remove any/all versions.
There are numerous vulnerabilities in them and they are actively being exploited.

Re: Isass.exe application error at log on in windows xp

It is highly suggested that you update to the latest version which is Sun Java JRE/JSE Version 6.0 update 4 (jre 6u4)

Simple check, look under...

C:\Program Files\Java

The only folder under that folder should be the latest version.

Such as...

C:\Program Files\Java\jre1.6.0_04

Part 2

Download Atribune's VUNDOFIX.EXE

<http://www.atribune.org/ccount/click.php?id=4>

Save VUNDOFIX.EXE to "C:\" (C:\VUNDOFIX.EXE) and execute it from there.

Part 3

Malwarebytes Anti-Malware 1.05
