You need to post a website for this sort of thing. A newsgroup is not effective because there is no way to keep the post from quickly disappearing as new posts are added.

Dear XP users not ready or willing to update to Vista

If you like your Windows XP you may not have it for long because Microsoft has announced they will start phasing out the Windows XP. Microsoft also said that you can Write in or get enough people that wanna keep Windows XP so they will not Phase it out like they planned. Pls Paste this on websites blogs and any were else on the net to keep XP alive. The Vista is flawed and wont play many games and Apps made for XP or later without a patch for that game or app which most App and Gaming companies will not or have not made the patch for they products.

Please sign here the more we people that sign this were more then likely to keep XP alive and well.
