

Re: Where's the saved files from deleted users

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.general/2008-08/msg02765.html>

---

- From: Bill <Bill@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 14 Aug 2008 07:17:03 -0700
-

N,

I logged on as administrator successfully and eventually found the file in question using explorer. It's properties revealed it was a hidden file. I changed that status and was able to move the file into the desired folder where it's usable.

Problem solved.

Thanks

Bill

"Nightowl" wrote:

Bill <Bill@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote on Tue, 12 Aug 2008:

N,

Thanks for your attention. P accused me of shouting at him and I guess that's true. But when you tell someone something four times that he seems to ignore, one has to do something to get his attention. If it were a phone conversation it would be different, but when several hours pass between communications, miscommunication is a time waster. I am normally pretty mild mannered.

Hi Bill,

You're welcome. Don't worry about the shouting -- I understand (and I'm sure Pegasus does too) how frustrating it can be if you're trying to explain a problem and feel someone has not paid attention to what you've said. Pegasus is one of the good guys though :-)) and as he said, reads a lot of posts and helps a lot of people; it can be difficult to keep all the details of a long thread on a particular problem fresh in your mind. Not to worry — let's start again.

Re: Where's the saved files from deleted users