i am scanning my computer with a program that Microsoft sent me to get and scan with. just scanned it and i have (trojan downloader – new juan/NV) and some adware threats. please tell me how to get rid of them. the program i am using with quarantine them but i know that doesnt stop them.

Both files are associated with a Vundo infection. Go through these general malware removal steps systematically. Do not skip the preparatory work.

MalwareBytes' Antimalware can sometime remove Vundo infections; it really just depends on what else you've got. However, Vundo infections can be very difficult to remove. When all else fails, get guided help. Choose one of the specialty forums listed at the first link. Register and read its posting FAQ. PLEASE DO NOT POST LOGS IN THE MS NEWSGROUPS.

If you can't do the work yourself (and there is no shame in admitting this isn't your cup of tea), take the machine to a professional computer repair shop (not your local equivalent of BigComputerStore/GeekSquad). Please be aware that not all local shops are skilled at removing malware and even if they are, your computer may be so infested that Windows will need to be clean-installed. If possible, have all your data backed up before you take the machine into a shop.
