I have 512 gb on my computer. My resources use up around 346. Would it be worth my while to get more memory? Would I notice a big difference in speed? I have a new computer but do notice at times that it is sluggish and the tech is telling me that more memory would help. If I have 512 and am only using 346 – in my estimation that leaves 166 just laying around doing nothing. Why do they say more? Can someone explain this to me. Thanks.
