I had an EPSON printer that died. I got it replaced under warranty and successfully installed the new printer (newer model). However, I cannot delete the old printer from Windows XP. This does not cause any operational problems as the new printer is my default but its just a bit of an annoyance.

There is a document in the queue that has been cancelled (back in June) but is just sitting there waiting to delete.

Is there any way that I can forcibly delete this printer?
