

Re: Fan goes turbo the moment I turn on computer

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.hardware/2008-03/msg00655.html>

---

- From: PaulMaudib <none@xxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 20 Mar 2008 18:44:24 -0500
-

On Thu, 20 Mar 2008 13:06:12 -0000, "M.I.5¾"
<no.one@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

"David Deley" <deleyd@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:I4GDj.21970\$mI6.19560@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

I checked and I don't have access to any other hardware group that isn't dead.

Your question is very welcome here, except by one brain dead school kid who has never contributed anything useful. Do yourself a favour and killfile the little turd.

PaulMaudib wrote:

On Mon, 17 Mar 2008 09:02:16 -0700, David Deley
<deleyd@xxxxxxx>
wrote:

Dell Dimension 8200. Been a nice quiet computer for 6 years. A few days ago, when I was out, I'm told fan that cools CPU decided to start blowing furiously. Then I'm told computer shut itself down.

I didn't find any thermal messages in system log. Computer boots and runs, but fan blows furiously the moment I push the power button to turn it on.

Re: Fan goes turbo the moment I turn on computer

Ran Dell Diagnostics. It passed all tests. But there wasn't a test for the fan.

If it was a thermal problem, something getting hot, wouldn't it take at least a few seconds for something to get hot to trigger the fan? But this fan blows furiously the moment I turn on the computer.

Could it be a faulty temperature sensor somewhere? I wonder where the temperature sensor is. Is it built into the CPU itself?

What does this have to do with the OS? NOTHING. This is a purely hardware related question and is out of place in THIS group.

Ask elsewhere

And yet even YOU can't deny that this question has absolutely NOTHING to do with XP OS, which is what the group is about (see that word in the title?). So you back into your corner snarling and calling me names instead. THAT is the action of a juvenile. I don't pull my punches and, to use a common phrase, call a spade a spade. If you would open your eyes and use your brain you would realize these posts I complain about are off topic but you choose to turn a blind eye to it. Go ahead, live in your own little world where you follow only the rules YOU decide are correct, and to hell with the rest of society.

I tremble at the thought of your response.

Oh, and the reply goes down HERE, top poster. That's one more little polite rule of USENET netiquette you don't obey.

.