

Re: DVD

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.help_and_support/2004-03/9146.html

From: peter (peter_at_nomalarky.net)

Date: 03/23/04

Date: Mon, 22 Mar 2004 19:54:13 -0700

<http://www.dvddemystified.com/dvdfaq.html#1.10>

peter

"Den" <nul@nul.nul> wrote in message
news:ywJ7c.4836$ze2.3024@nwrddc01.gnilink.net...

> On the properties tab for my DVD player I have the region set to 1.

>

> The tab notes that "CAUTION You can change the region a limited number of > times. After Changes remaining reaches zero, you cannot change the region > even if you reinstall Windows or move your DVD to a difference computer."

>

> I understand why this is so (marketing!), but how is implemented ... how is > the drive going to 'remember' if it is moved to a new system NVRAM?

>

> Does this mean that Windows queries the drive for it's region each time the > system starts up, or, Windows tells the drive its region.

>

> Cheers

>

> D

>

>

>