

microsoft.public.windowsxp.help_and_support: Re: How do I do a full backup without a floppy drive?

Re: How do I do a full backup without a floppy drive?

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.help\_and\_support/2004-04/5189.html

---

From: NoNoBadDog! (nospam_bjsledge_at_pixi.com)

Date: 04/13/04

Date: Tue, 13 Apr 2004 12:12:56 -1000

Start > Help and Support > "File and Settings Transfer";

This will tell you how to transfer the data from your old computer to your new computer. Even if you had a floppy drive, it would take hundreds of floppies to back up your data....and a very large amount of time!!!!

Bobby

"Old Walrus" <anonymous@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:C96621E9-905A-4C26-B425-0ABA11CCCFBF@microsoft.com...
>I want to a make a full system backup but my new computer has no floppy >drive. What should I do?