Hello:

I am running XP Pro and I recently started experiencing this nasty problem. When ever I start My Computer, Control Panel or Windows Explorer my task bar disappears and nothing else occurs. I went into the event log and I found an informational message that explorer.exe terminated its shell session. I have no idea as to why this is happening. I have surfed through several user groups trying to get a viable solution to this problem. Please let me know if you have any input on diagnosing and or solving this issue.

Thanks,
Tom
