

Can one have the wrong BIOS installed?

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.help_and_support/2004-05/7591.html

From: Videot (notathome_at_optusnet.com.au)

Date: 05/20/04

Date: Thu, 20 May 2004 14:35:01 +0800

Could a PC have the wrong BIOS installed? I used the System information section of Norton's Systemworks to get details about my system since I am having so many boot up problems .. I notice that it correctly lists like processor,etc. I made a note of what BIOS was installed & then compared it to what Intel's web site said about my motherboard. The numbers appear to be considerably different from one another. I download the BIOS it said was for my motherboard. When I tried to run the BIOS it told me that I was trying to install the wrong BIOS for my board & the download refused to install. I have gone back to web site & triple checked that I had downloaded the correct BIOS & I hadn't made a mistake. Could the wrong BIOS have been installed when the PC was in the shop the last time? If so how is this fixed?

--

Thanks in advance