

Re: Programs crashing,error msgs incompatible files.all I did was

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.help\_and\_support/2004-06/6816.html

---

From: Willie (willieinkazoo\_at\_youhuu.com)

Date: 06/18/04

Date: Fri, 18 Jun 2004 15:27:04 -0400

There's NOTHING wrong with the MB you currently have. We are bouncing back between both of your posts. Read my CURRENT answer to your "Other" post. I hope we can get this resolved.

Willie

"Stuka" <Stuka@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message news:FD926018-AFF5-4A9E-98F7-AEED780C42C6@microsoft.com...

> Is that so!!! trust me to buy a troublesome card! well it has an agp slot and it supports 8x whatever that is so I had been considering that option, I just didnt want to splash out (not a big splash mind!) and find I still had the same problem, i think it may well be the way to go, might get another motherboard whilst I'm at it any suggestions? As for my needs, well I do play the odd game but not many and not that often but I just hate it when things aren't right! you no what I mean?

>

> "Willie" wrote:

>

>> I typed your cards name in Google, and I see a few people having issues with >> this card. Does your MB board have an AGP slot? I would do away with the >> PCI card, and opt for a reasonably priced AGP card...Not sure what your >> computing intentions are, but there are quite a few AGP cards out there.

Of

>> course not everyone has $$$ to spend. Keep us posted.

>>

>> Willie

>>

>>

>> "Stuka" <Stuka@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message

>> news:21D72991-22D2-4B37-B8C6-9F6A2714652C@microsoft.com...

>>> Right well bear with me here as I dare say I'm something of a novice but I >> do seem to be learning a lot fast since I decided to upgrade my comp! I microsoft.public.windowsxp.help_and_support: Re: Programs crashing,error msgs incompatible files.all I did was > > *recently installed a new msi motherboard, 512mb of ddr400 mem a new 80gb > > hard disk and of course Windows xp.Now I seem to have ironed out many of the > > probs I had in the begining(and there were many!) but I have one major one > > that I cant fathom, when ever I run a program (game based) it loads up, > > plays for a short time the the screen goes blue, I get error msgs and

the > > comp shuts down.I'm thinking it's to do with my graphics card/driver it's a > > geforce mx420, I have downloaded and downloaded supposed driver updates but > > am I doing more harm than good is it that the mx420 isn't really up to the > > job? Any advise please as this one has got me stumped.
> >
> >
> >*