exactly as an earlier poster but with XP Pro my desk top last night...downloaded mail , latest McAfee ISS updates then it announced that it had downloaded Security updates from MS. and re booted.....

Now it boots to user login screen and the asks for password in new box. Same for both users(no password was ever set, machine is 2 months old and hardly used. Admin is also asking for password. also was never set.

After bad day with the lap top (full system crash and re install) i have now tried to overinstall xp again system will not get past XP screen with blue bar where it hangs..

Is this some new virus.....
