

RE: Welcome Screen Changed After Virus Removal

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.help_and_support/2005-02/9271.html

From: Daniel Chung (Chung_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/22/05

Date: Tue, 22 Feb 2005 03:37:01 -0800

When I try to change the way user log on or off in the control panel there is an error which reads " A Dynamic Link Library (DLL) Routine Failed" . After I check the 2 boxes and enter again the 2 boxes were unchecked? Why is this happening?

"BAR" wrote:

- > Well perhaps the best thingy to do is reinstall the XP thingy and perform a
- > repair installation.
- >
- > That way everythingy will be back to normal thingy and you can play with the
- > thingy as you like.
- >
- > "Daniel Chung" wrote:
- >
- >> Hi my XP welcome screen changed after I did a virus removal using a program
- >> which I forgot. After I removed the virus it asked me to restart and when it
- >> restarts it says window is starting in some mode. At the welcome screen it has
- >> changed from XP welcome screen to a classic window log in screen. I've tried
- >> changing it back using the control panel user account thingy but only the
- >> shutdown screen changes back to XP style and the welcome screen still stays
- >> the same. The task manager is changed as well. How do I solve this problem
- >> although everything is doing fine now?