I am able to log in as myself as an Admin user(my account)...all the other accounts when

I click on their username and enter their password it starts to load their settings then returns to the welcome screen(including the default Admin Account).

And then I find that I cant log in too!

I then use a bootable cdrom to help me reset my password (which I never forgot anyway!), I then log in to XP, and find that the other accounts have disappeared from the welcome screen/users applet in control panel.

Running XP Pro SP2 all updates, Norton Internet Security 2005, all updates. No spyware or adaware, clean system.

Any help appreciated!
