Thanks for the tips.

Do you happen to know if I go back to a previous restore point whether that might also get rid of whatever found its way onto my computer?

Thanks.

Michael

This link at MS is a database of DLL files for MS Windows as well as other programs.

DLL Help Database <http://support.microsoft.com/dllhelp/>

DSCAN16 & DSCAN32 are not Windows or MS dlls. Delete them. Let them sit in your Recycle Bin for a while. Then rerun your antivirus.

Turn off your antivirus If and when you run another antivirus utility, and any malware detector.

Here's one free virus-cleanup tool to use, even though it will involve time and effort. I suggest you get & run SYSCLEAN from Trendmicro.

See PA Bear's notes on Sysclean from TrendMicro.

Scanning with SYSCLEAN Robear's way
