I have a P4 system with Win XP (home Ed). I use a 2 way satellite for Internet access and I have his and her computers networked using network cards and Wingate software. So far I have not chosen to click on the little popup window that appears on my desktop and says updates are available. I have had this system for about 14 months. I would really appreciate some knowledgeable inputs on the pros and cons of downloading these updates. I have pretty good firewall protection with the Earthlink satellite system and I use Norton ( a new one) regularly. The satellite systems modems, (one transmit and one receive) seem to be very sensitive to changes, Comments please??
