That sounds like a job for a good small local computer repair shop. Just ask how much first.

Hope this helps.

I just had a friend install a new Chaintech vnf4 motherboard and installed Windows xp home edition with SP2. I am able to shutdown the operating system by going to start/turn off computer. The system will shut down but my motherboard keeps running. The fan continues to go. I am unable to use the button on the computer to power back up. I have to turn off the power supply then turn it back on and hit the button on the computer to start it back up. Can anyone help. I have a call to tech support for the motherboard.
