Anyone have any idea why my screen saver doesn't kick in as of a couple days ago?
It shows under "properties" and I can even re-click "apply" but no matter how much lag time I give it, it won't come on
It and the following question I have in a different post occurred about the same time. It is as follows.....
Anyone having trouble with the recent updates?
I have noticed that I can be typing along and all the sudden I'm typing blanks. Just happened recently. The other day, I backed up with system recall a week wondering if I picked up something that my anti-vir couldn't find. The problem seemed to go away.
Last evening I let it re-download the same couple updates and the problem re-appeared. I backed it up clear to Jan 1 and again, it seems to be OK. I see it is wanting to download them again. Don't think so.

Click "S" and scroll down to the Screen Saver section.
