Good evening (morning?) Mr. Murphy,

Since you bring up the subject of friends in the UK...

Some time ago we informed you that Hades would probably freeze over before we find time to pursue your "Identity Theft" complaint that someone was impersonating you in the Vista Usenet newsgroups.

However we might be able to help you with your current situation in the XP newsgroups that you appear to have all but moved to since then.

With your permission, we will contact some of our friends in Scotland Yard and in MI5 and ask them if they can find the time to take over stalking this person "nass" that is annoying you in the XP newsgroups.

If they agree to help and can find the time, you will then be freed to go about your preferred business of being the wonderful, loving, kind and helpful person you really are when you are online.

Please reply ASAP.

They were disgusted, and now going to sue you!

Tell everyone how many court cases you have to go to over your shoddy work!
