i have messenger v7.0 on windows 98

sometimes i'd like to speak with unknown people (that is without knowing the email address)

mainly for solving technical pc problems in example i've installed messenger two days ago and i need to do some testing now question:

is possible to chat with someone without giving my email address and without knowing his email address?

is there a place where I can put my nickname, just to let know to everyone in the world i'm online so if someone wants to speak to me, he can do it?

is there a place where I can put my name and put a question in addition in example: jhonny – problem with Photoshop shadow effects and wait for someone contacting me about the problem?

note:

i have four valid contacts of friends of mine, but we almost never meet each other because different time and different general interest (it sounds odd but it is the true)

thanks
