

Re: Save video

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.moviemaker/2005-02/1330.html>

From: Luc (Luc_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/23/05

Date: Wed, 23 Feb 2005 15:35:04 -0800

One other thing

It is possible that the option "video size same as video input won't work when editing avi or import movie???"

"PapaJohn (MVP)" wrote:

> The WMV format is a great choice... see the Saving Movies > Custom WMV
> Profiles page of my site for some comments about going higher than the > 720x480 size for DVDs....
>
> You'll need to balance things... good or best quality comes from bigger file > sizes... and the computer capabilities to play back higher quality movies > are more demanding... if you get great quality but can't play it smoothly, > is it of value?
> --
> PapaJohn
>
> Movie Maker 2 and Photo Story 3 – www.papajohn.org
> Photo Story 2 – www.photostory.papajohn.org
> ..
> "Luc" <Luc@discussions.microsoft.com> wrote in message > news:89F58066-4523-4899-BD10-2811A3B27418@microsoft.com...
> HI
> >
> > I record my screen with Snag it. (1024x768)
> >
> > In movie maker i edit the avi from Snagit.
> >
> > Now i whant to know what are the best setting (profile) i could use to:
> >
> > Save to 1024-768 or 800x600
> >
> > Have good or best image quality
> >
> >
> > and the smallest video size either in avi or mpeg or?????????

Re: Save video

microsoft.public.windowsxp.moviemaker: Re: Save video

> >

> > Thank for any input

>

>

>