

RE: SAVING project in movie maker to edit later

---

Source:

<http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.moviemaker/2005-09/msg00382.html>

---

- From: dickmr <dickmr@xx>
  - Date: Tue, 13 Sep 2005 17:40:03 -0700
-

Here is a link to where SendLink can be found. She can download it on her computer (download) by giving her email address...and then if she wants to buy it click on 'register' and follow the instructions. If you click on 'register' you can see it is $25.

<http://www.computerknacks.com/sendlink/download.php>

"dickmr" wrote:

- > George, can she just 'save' the rendered movie to CD as a file and not burn
- > it as a movie cd? If she just saves it as a file (like you would save a
- > picture) then you should be able to 'copy' the movie to a file on your
- > computer. She won't be able to render the movie in DV-AVI (best quality)
- > because the file will likely be way too large for cd, but she can likely save
- > it in 'high quality ntsc' which will give you a decent dvd burn quality.
- >
- > There is another way if you are adventurous. There is a program called
- > 'SendLink' which costs $25 or so....if she would get that program, she would
- > be able to send you a 'link' to the movie on her computer within an email,
- > and you could download it to your computer. If you have broadband she could
- > save it in DV-AVI since you could download it within a reasonable time. In
- > Sendlink, you drag the file into the Sendlink window, and then drag it from
- > that window into your email. It will show as a link in the email...she then
- > sends it to you, and you download it directly off of her computer. Good
- > luck!
- >
- > "George" wrote:
- >
- >> Thanks for the response. I have no problem saving my own movies I created.
- >> Also I have no problem burning them to DVD. The problem is a friend wants to - >> create a movie on her computer and then bring the whole movie over to my
- >> computer so I can burn it for her. I have Sonic DVD and also Nero. She can
- >> burn her movie to a CD - and I can put the CD in my computer and see her
- >> movie...but, I cannot get it to burn to a DVD so she can see it on the TV. I
- >> feel that if I could call up her project into my storybook with her audio
- >> into a storybook then I could burn it to DVD as if I just created it from
- >> scratch. But, I can't seem to figure this out.

RE: SAving project in movie maker to edit later

>> Thanks for any help.
>>
>> "Scott" wrote:
>>
>>> Hi George, I also made a movie with many different pics. and music. I used my >>> computer and a friends laptop as I put it together.
>>> NOW that its finished, I also cannot save it to my computer. It goes through >>> the motions but each time we are "saving" it, I get an error message saying >>> its either too big a file to be saved (not true, I have tons of space left on >>> computer)
>>> or it says; a file is "missing" or has been changed since making it (untrue)
>>> so it cannot save to a file.
>>> IF it could be saved to a file, then I could drag it into one of my DVD >>> burners and make a DVD, I also think that is your problem.
>>> Have you "Saved it to computer" as a finished file before trying to burn it >>> to dvd yet??
>>> Hope you get an answer, I will keep looking around myself, Scott
>>>
>>> "George" wrote:
>>>
>>>> I just learned MM2 and have a DVD burner to create DVD. My friend does not >>>> have DVD burner and wants to create/complete movie at her house and bring it >>>> to me to me to burn on my DVD burner. She tried saving to CD but I can only >>>> "play" it on my computer, not call it up as a project, edit and save as DVD.
>>>> We tried many different ways to accomplish this ... no luck. Any help would >>>> be appreciated.

---

• Follow-Ups:

- ◆ RE: SAving project in movie maker to edit later
◇ From: dickmr

• References:

- ◆ SAving project in movie maker to edit later
◇ From: George

- Prev by Date: Re: MM2 Rendering MPEG-4 Files
- Next by Date: Re: How to change Resolution
- Previous by thread: SAving project in movie maker to edit later
- Next by thread: RE: SAving project in movie maker to edit later
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread