

Problem with firewalls

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2004-05/1737.html anonymous_at_discussions.microsoft.com

Date: 05/13/04

Date: Thu, 13 May 2004 00:05:32 -0700

Right click on the connection in network connections select properties. Go to advanced and disable the firewall. I suggest you download zone alarm though – it allows you to set your computers as trusted and everything else as internet, and provides different levels of security

>-----Original Message-----

>Hi:

>

>I have a DSL internet connection. I have one computer >that acts as the server of my house, and from that >computer I connect 3 more computers to the net. I make >this using the network wizard of windows. It configures >everything in my computer. The problem I have is that it >makes firewalls.

>

>Now, I really don't like the firewalls, but I don't know >how to take them out. I really need it because I use >several programs with which I really need to know the >ports I have to use, but I don't know them and I don't >know where to see information about them.

>

>So can anybody tell me how to take out the firewall or >where can I see information about the ports?

>

>TIA

>

>Antonio R.

>.

>