Is there a way to get rid of the icon XP (Home SP2) displays in the tray (little monitor with radio waves and a red X, tooltip "<name of connection> not connected. right-click for more options") when a wireless connection is unavailable? I have tried unchecking "notify me when this connection has limited or no connectivity" for the connection, but the darned icon still shows up... I don't remember having this problem before the SP2 upgrade...

This is especially annoying because I can't use Wireless Zero Config because it doesn't support 256-bit WEP and so have TWO icons in the tray (one from D-Link's utility for the wireless card, one from XP) telling me I have no connection. ARGH! :(
