

microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web: small utility to control xp gateway connection from win98

small utility to control xp gateway connection from win98

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2004-12/2483.html

From: Kenny S (hotmail_at_coldmail.com)

Date: 12/24/04

Date: Fri, 24 Dec 2004 04:20:35 +0200

I remember I had installed a microsoft utility on windows 98 machines that would enable those machines to control the shared internet connection on windows XP.

There would be a small icon in the system tray showing the gateway and you could right click that and connect or disconnect.

However I dont remember where I found it or whats it called...

can anybody help me???

TIA