

RE: VoIP-Router-Linksy

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2005-02/1594.html

From: BAR (BAR_at_discussions.microsoft.com)

Date: 02/10/05

Date: Thu, 10 Feb 2005 02:09:04 -0800

Features

Easy installation using a USB or Ethernet Connection
CableLabs® DOCSIS 1.1 Certified®,
Superior Transfer Rates
Quick Modem Sync-up for Shorter Installation Times
High Stability
Low Failure Rates
Unparalleled Technical Support
Self-Installation Wizard & Advanced Diagnostics Software
SNMP Support
Field Upgradable Firmware
Front Panel Display with Diagnostic LEDs
5 Year Warranty

NOW IS THE FIRST ITEM – USB or Ethernet? So why don't you use the ethernet socket instead of the USB socket on the modem – silly you!

"Kennel" wrote:

> I am connected to broadband with a Toshiba PCX2500 modem. PC is connected via > USB port. Tried installing LinkskyRT31P2 broadband router using ethernet > connection on Toshiba modem. Linksky connects but PC will not using LAN > port(ethernet connection). Have tried PC direct to Toshiba modem but PC will > not recognize any connection. How can I configure PC to connect to broadband > thru LAN port instead od USB port. Thanks