

Re: Wired and Wireless mixed network

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2005-07/msg00168.html

- From: "Kerry Brown" <kerry@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx*a*m>
 - Date: Sun, 3 Jul 2005 10:15:43 -0700
-

"Slotmech" <Slotmech@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:C775BCC6-3CCC-43CC-A884-F3CF22145B2E@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>I currently have a home wired network that operates with no problem. I > recently added another computer to the network but this one is wireless. I > can access the internet with no problem from the wireless unit but i am > unable to access the other computers or the printer and the other > computers
> can not access the wireless one. anyone have any ideas?

How is the wireless pc connected to the wired network? Did you add a wireless router or access point? The wireless pc may be on a different subnet from your wired network if you added a wireless router. Please post the results of ipconfig /all from the wireless computer and one of the wired computers.

Kerry

-
- References:
 - ◆ Wired and Wireless mixed network
 - ◇ From: Slotmech
 - Prev by Date: Re: Wired and Wireless mixed network
 - Next by Date: Re: Please help me to set up my home network
 - Previous by thread: Re: Wired and Wireless mixed network
 - Next by thread: controlled network
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread