

Re: Connecting Two Routers with File Sharing

Source:

http://www.tech-archive.net/Archive/WinXP/microsoft.public.windowsxp.network_web/2005-11/msg00845.html

- From: "Jim" <null@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 25 Nov 2005 21:33:13 -0800
-

Try deleting the arp cache on all computers:

```
netsh interface ip delete arpcache
```

Jim

<jkuncheria@xxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:1132976617.926591.108800@xx>

- > I have one router (first) connected to the Internet and another router
- > (second) connected to the first. I set it up as described on
- > <http://www.smallnetbuilder.com/Sections-article51-page3.php>
- >
- > I've disabled the second router's DHCP server and the connection b/w
- > the two routers is from LAN port to LAN port. All computers are on the - > same subnet as reflected by ip addresses & subnet masks. All PCs are in
- > the same workgroup and WinXP firewalls on all computers are off.
- >
- > So the problem I am having is that computers on the first router can
- > see (via My Network Places) computers on the second router, but not
- > vice versa. Similarly computers on the second router cannot ping the
- > first, but in the opposite direction it works.
- >
- > Despite all this... I can access the Internet fine on all computers.
- > Any idea how I can solve this problem to be able to share?
- >
- > -JK
- >

-
- References:
 - ◆ Connecting Two Routers with File Sharing
 - ◇ From: jkuncheria

Re: Connecting Two Routers with File Sharing

- Prev by Date: Re: Connecting Two Routers with File Sharing
- Next by Date: Re: Port numbers
- Previous by thread: Connecting Two Routers with File Sharing
- Next by thread: Connecting Two Routers with File Sharing
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread